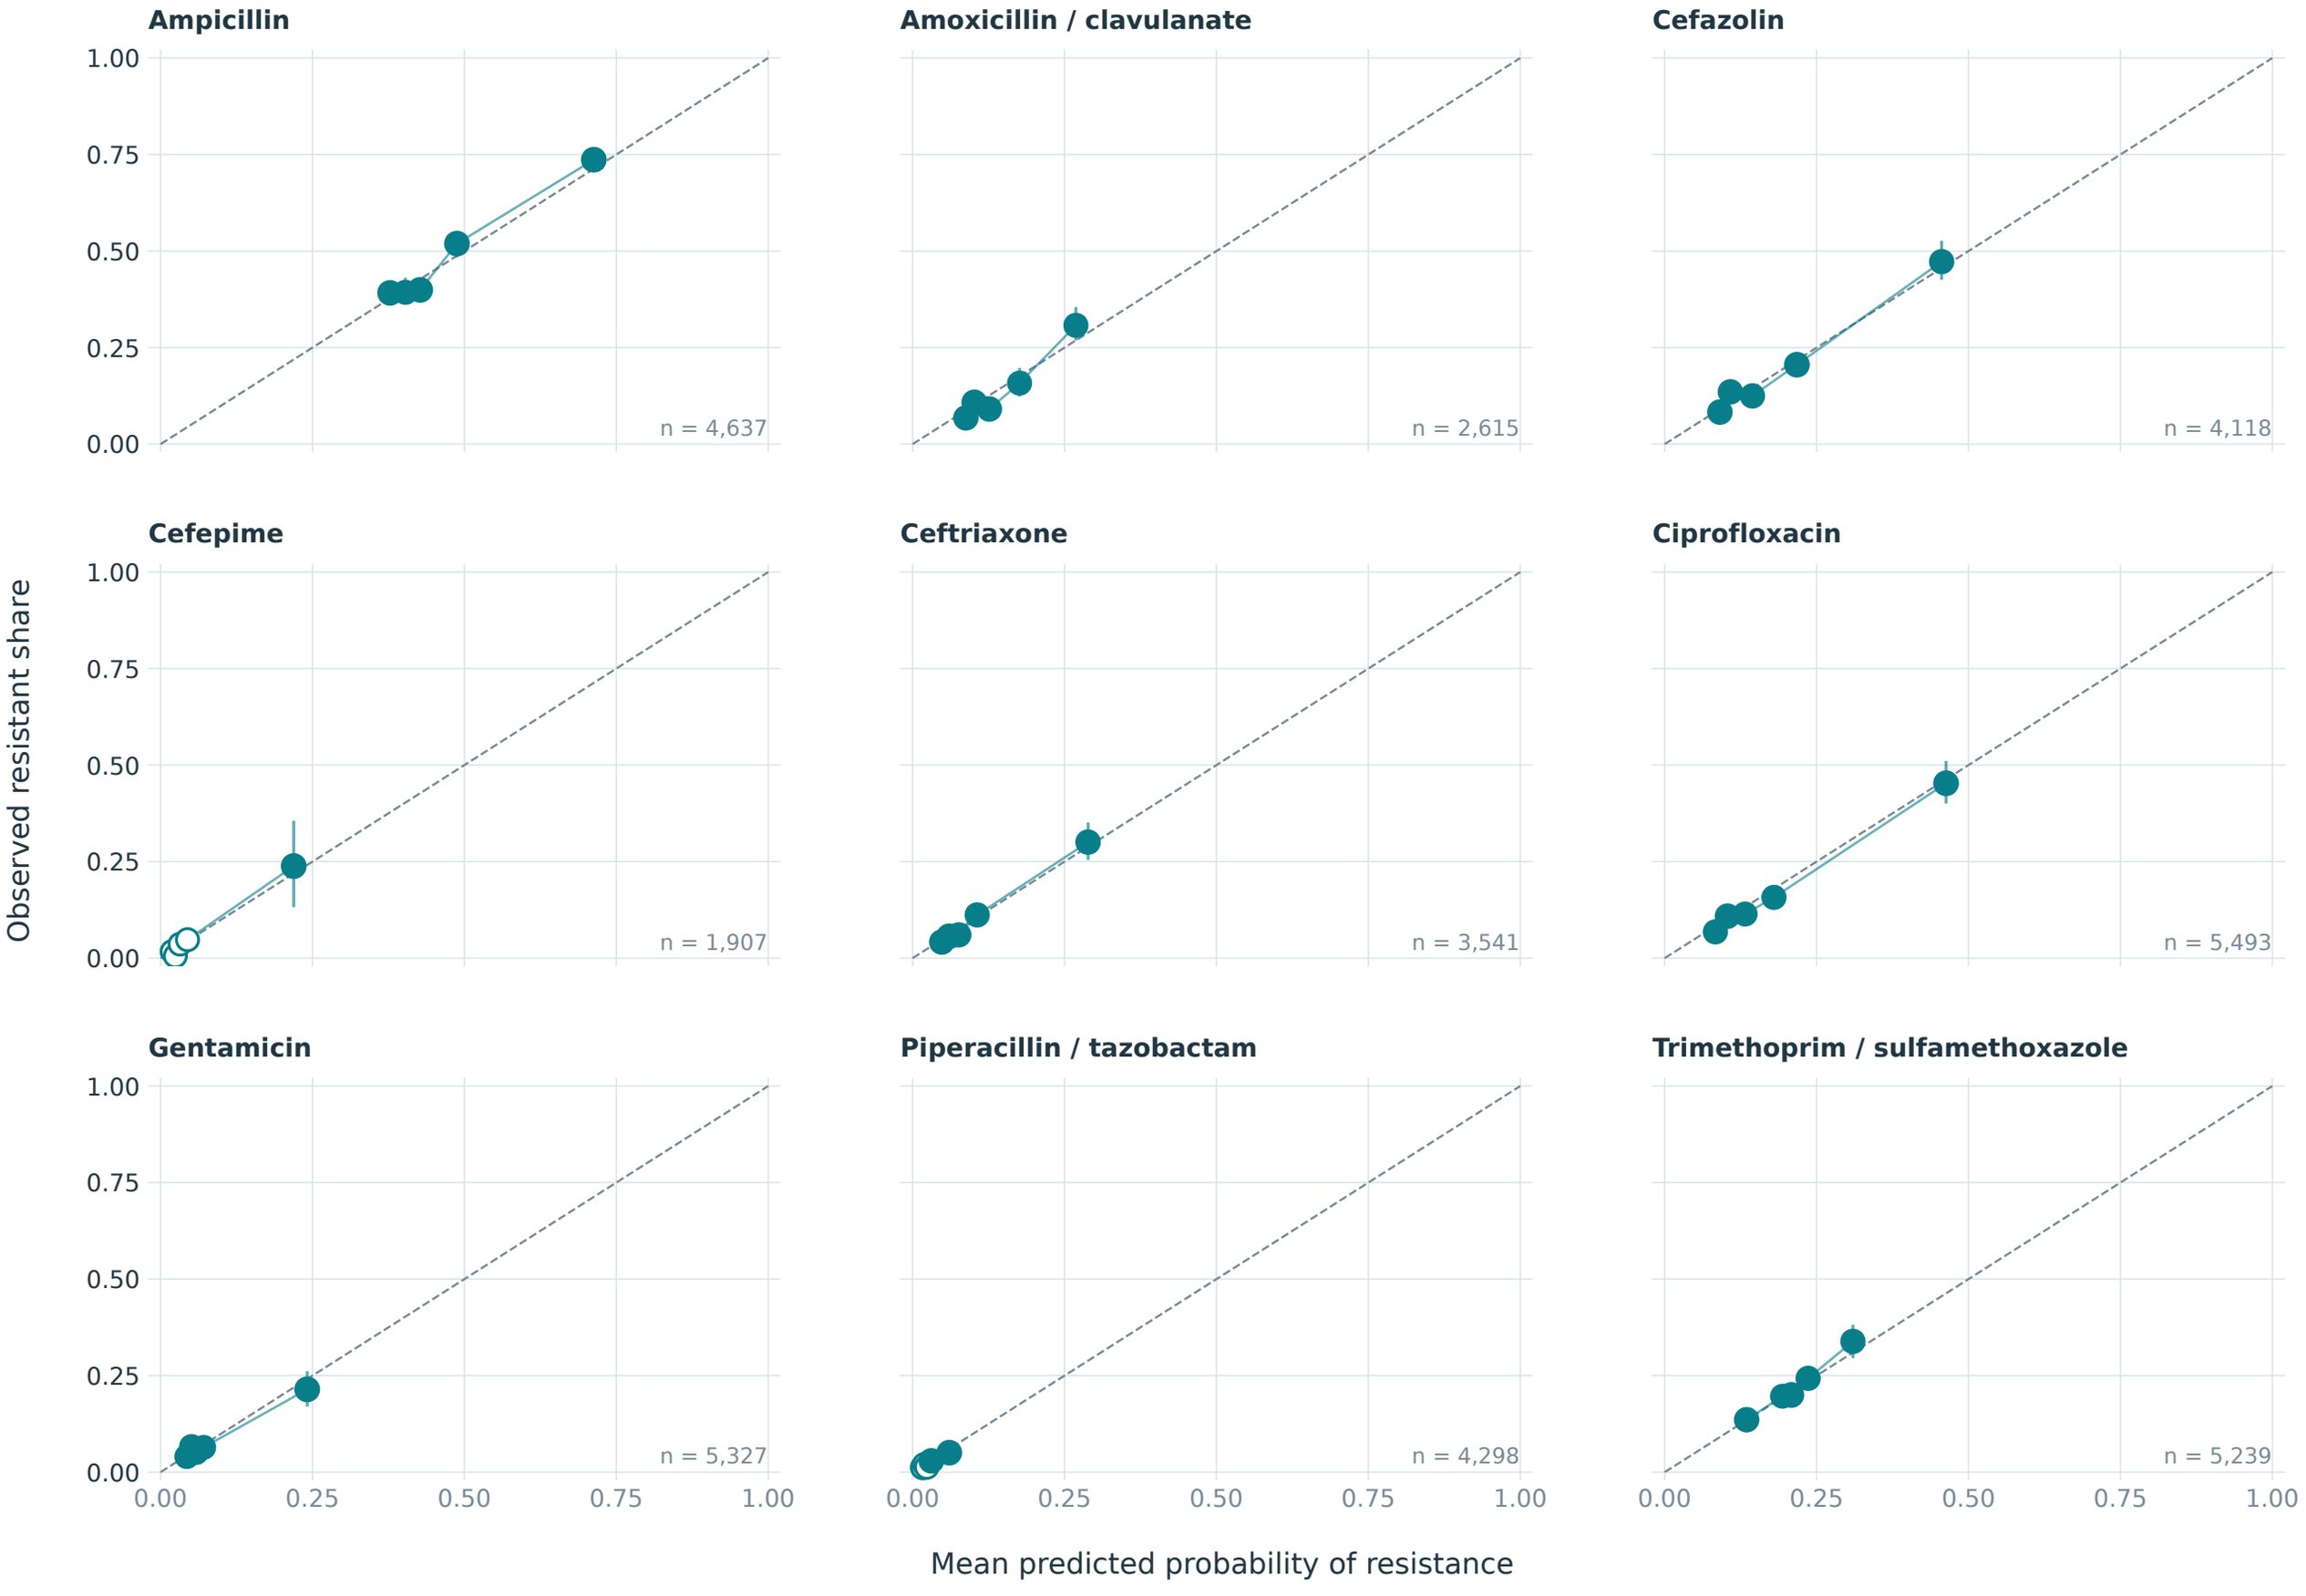
A good pooled calibration curve can hide drug differences

Selected model | test outcomes in validation-defined bins | open circles mark sparse bins



The dashed line marks exact agreement. Larger points mark larger bins; lines show 95% patient-bootstrap intervals (500 draws). Sparse means fewer than 100 rows or fewer than 20 resistant results in a bin. Intervals are pointwise and do not prove calibration across all probabilities.